The property, once an integral part of the Fortress of Villa Medici del Vascello, of which it was the church and the greenhouse, was later transformed into a private residence. The house, with a total internal surface of about 2,500 square meters, built on a plot of 15,000 square meters, is on different levels and has been recently renovated, so as to bring the building to its former glory while maintaining all the distinctive features, such as: vaulted ceilings, exposed wooden beams, terracotta floors and original stone walls of the time.

The structure is full of passages, halls and corridors consistent with the local architectural tradition. The complex, is immersed and part of the park of 105,000 square meters belonging to the fifteenth-century fortress of Villa Medici del Vascello. Within this larger area are located a lake, plant species of high value, and historic buildings. The garden pertaining to the Cascina, of one and a half hectares, develops both on the front and on the back of the structure, creating romantic and natural backdrops.

The Villa derives from a fortress built at the beginning of the fifteenth century, at the behest of Carlino Fondulo (1407), Lord of Cremona. The original need was to ensure control over the Lower Province of Cremona, in a crossroads between the roads leading to Parma, Mantua, Brescia and Cremona. In the second half of the fifteenth century, after the passage to the Duchy of Milan, the defensive vocation is less and begins the process of transformation that will lead the fortress to become a villa. This happened during the period in which the villa was the home of Cecilia Gallerani, the woman portrayed in the famous painting by Leonardo da Vinci "Lady con Ermellino".
